BEAUTIFUL WOMAN WHO HAS MADE

BRILLIANT BEGINNING IN THE LAW

MRS. W. J. SUTTON.

Mrs. William J. Sutton, a woman lawyer recently graduated with honors from New York Law school, is being congratulated by her friends on the successful termination of her first case. She had been engaged as counsel by Mrs. Ada Lewis, whose husband had deserted her and their thirteen-year-old daughter. The husband is a well known politician of Fair Haven, N. J. The case was called before Justice of the Peace Frank Mulford, of that place. The defense was granted a postponement. When the case again came up the defense made another attempt to waive a postponement. Mrs. Sutton spiritedly opposed the motion. She declared that if the justice did not give her client a speedy trial she would see to it that the justice was indicted. The hearing proceeded at once. Lewis was placed under bond to give his wife and child a regular weekly stipend.

FORMAL DRESS FOR CHURCH WEDDING

Etiquette to Be Observed is Intricate—Congratulate Bridegroom, Wish Bride Happiness

If you are invited to attend a church wedding, you should wear a gown appropriate for a formal occasion, with hat and white gloves. Extreme evening dress is not permissible, unless a wrap be worn over it and kept on in church.

Above all, do not be late. You should calculate your time and arrive not later than five minutes before the ceremony. If late, you should quietly take a place near the entrance so as not to disturb the services. Even though you have been placed above the white ribbon by the bride in her apportioning of the guests, you must forfeit this honor.

The ushers will generally ask you when you are a friend of the bride or bridegroom. Your answer will determine the side of the church on which you will sit. If you are to be placed above the white ribbon with the immediate family or friends, you should mention the fact with your name to avoid confusion.

Keep Seat Given You. Never force yourself into any of the pews that have been reserved for others. Do not complain about your place, as if you were in a theater, and by all means do not push forward or stand out of place to get a better view. All these are marks of ill-breeding. No guest should leave his seat until the bridal party has passed down the aisle.

If you have been invited to a wedding, breakfast or reception, you should proceed to the hostess' home immediately after the ceremony. Here the women place their wraps in a room designated. The ushers to introduce the men lay aside their hats and coats and canes. With the right-hand glove drawn off the gentlemen should enter the reception room after the ladies whom they have accompanied, and in a polite line approach the receiving party.

If you do not know the bride or bridegroom, you are privileged to ask one of the ushers to introduce you, as they are considered masters of ceremony, whose duty it is to make every one comfortable.

Wish Bride Happiness. Express your good wishes to the bride. Wish her happiness in her new life. Do not congratulate her on being successful in having a man marry her. This is a "faux pas"—a social blunder. Your congratulations are extended to the bridegroom. He is to be congratulated on his good fortune at having such a charming life-mate.

When a great crowd of guests is in the reception room you should not linger, but should make way for others. Speak to the bride's parents, who are the real hosts of the occasion, and, if you wish, move to the dining room for refreshments. When toasts are proposed glasses are touched. Wedding cake in boxes should be taken, one only by each guest, and cards left in the receiver if you have not placed them there on your arrival. A woman leaves one of her cards and two of her husband's.

HE THOUGHT IT WAS THE TANGO

"Nothing Doing" Said Manager of Hall at Hudson Lake and There Wasn't.

Manager Charles Fischer, who is the whole thing, dance hall manager, cottage renter and the like at Lake park, on the shores of Hudson lake, has constituted himself as censor of dances at his pavilion.

And as one result of this 29 young people returned indignant from the resort Friday, cutting short what was planned as a two weeks' vacation.

Dance Master Fischer, it seems, sets his foot down firmly on such terrestrial innovations as the Boston tango, the turkey trot and such. He doesn't like to see folks running across his dance floor even, it seems. In fact, the young folks report that he's down right flimsy, and that every once in a while he slams down the cover of the electric piano and closes up the dance for the night on mighty slim provocation.

DR. THOMSON'S EYE TALKS

(TALK NO. 151.)

Farther Away.

The greater the distance from your eyes to your lenses the stronger the lenses become and the more they magnify. That is the reason so many people wear their glasses on the ends of their noses. The lenses are really too weak for them. Just the other day a gentleman who wears glasses regularly told me that he suffered from constant headache. His only relief was to push his glasses farther from his eyes. This seemed to rest him and remove the pain. I found his glasses just three-fourths as strong as they should be for his eyes. When I had given him the correct lenses for his eyes he felt better with his glasses in their proper position. Correctly fitted lenses should always be worn as close to the eyes as possible without touching the lashes.

Correctly fitted lenses are the only kind I sell.
